Calls plea bargaining 'necessary evil'

Circuit judge refuses to reduce sentence

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Circuit Judge James Thomas gave Jimmy Sullivan a choice Friday of accepting a prison sentence imposed on him during the October 1983 court term or facing charges as a life habitual criminal.

The same grand jury also indicted him on a charge of possession of a controlled substance.

Originally Sullivan was indicted as a life habitual criminal because of prior convictions, but following plea bargaining the charge was reduced to maximum habitual.

Persons who qualify as 'life habituals' are automatically sentenced to life imprisonment if they are convicted of a subsequent felony.

On conviction of a subsequent felony

'maximum habituals' automatically receive the maximum sentence for that felony.

As a result of the plea bargaining Sullivan pled guilty to both charges and received the maximum sentence of five years for receiving stolen property and three years for possession of a controlled substance, to be served consecutively without suspension, parole or other reduction of sentence.

Sullivan was brought back from the state penitentiary at Parchman on a motion he filed in March to 'correct' his sentence.

The motion, Thomas stated for the record, said that in effect the indictment for receiving stolen property was defective because it failed to state that the property Sullivan received was valued in excess of $100.

Subsequently, Sullivan's attorney James G. Tucker III argued, Sullivan should have received only a three-month misdemeanor sentence in the county jail.

Tucker also argued that Sullivan was entitled to 76 days concurrent credit on both sentences because he spent 76 days in jail prior to being sent to Parchman.

Thomas called John C. (Sonny) Johnson and Robert Walter, former assistant district attorneys, to the stand to testify about the plea bargaining.

Both men testified there was no discussion about reducing charges to a misdemeanor although Johnson said he believed he and Henry J. Cook III, also representing Sullivan, had discussed problems with the indictment.

"There were some problems with indictments that came out of the July 1982 grand jury, particularly with regard to indictments for grand larceny and receiving stolen property," Johnson noted.

"Many of them were defective because the value was left off."

"But I would not have let him plead guilty to a misdemeanor when I allowed him to plea down from a life habitual to a maximum habitual," he asserted.

During questioning by Thomas, Tucker said he suspected there was a defect in the indictment at the time of plea bargaining but did not discuss it

DUI appeal questions Implied Consent Law

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Bay St. Louis Attorney Billy Gibson is attempting to challenge the constitutionality of Mississippi's Implied Consent Law, and local law enforcement officials indicate they, too, question some aspects of the law.

Gibson represents Leopoldo Gutierrez, a construction worker from Slidell, La. with a residence in Mississippi who is appealing a January driving-under-the-influence conviction in Waveland City Court.

Following his nolo contendere plea, Gutierrez was sentenced as a second offender to 48 hours in jail, fined $400 and ordered to pay $81 in court costs.

His driver's license was also suspended.

Waveland Patrolman James Varnell testified Friday that he advised Gutierrez after his arrest that he had a right to refuse a toxilizer test for alcohol but that if he refused, his driver's license would automatically be suspended 90 days for a first offense, one year for a second offense.

In such cases, Varnell said, the driver's license is stapled to a form stating the refusal and forwarded to the Commissioner of Public Safety in Jackson.

A notification of suspension is subsequently sent from the commissioner.

"This is the standard procedure under the Mississippi Implied Consent Law," Varnell testified.

Gutierrez testified that he took the test only because he was told he would lose his license if he did not.

"City courts in Mississippi are the only tribunals I have found where a person can be deprived of liberty without benefit of trial by jury," Gibson said.

"Waveland had no city prosecutor at the time," he noted, "and it's humanly impossible to sit as judge, prosecutor, defender, decide the facts, apply the law and impose the sentence."

Gibson said the court is operating much more smoothly since Waveland has hired Henry Cook as city prosecutor.

"But at the time this occurred, the whole thing was unconstitutional," Gibson asserted.

"Under Mississippi Implied Consent Law a person can and in many cases does lose a very valuable property right—in some cases, his very right to make a living—based solely on a sworn affidavit mailed to Jackson," Gibson continued.

"The commissioner's decisions are automatic and he revokes licenses without an adjudication hearing."

"A defendant has no right to present his side of the story, no right to have witnesses called on his behalf, no right to question witnesses on the other side."

Hancock sewerage project might get some state funds

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Although the state officials would not give Waveland Regional Wastewater District representatives a firm commitment regarding immediate funding of the proposed spray irrigation land sewage treatment system, there may be a possibility that some money will be available to begin the project.

Ethel Schott, the wastewater district administrator, said Saturday that she and other Hancock County officials met with the State Natural Resources Commission and Bureau of Pollution Control heads Thursday at 2 p.m.

"They supported our plan and would like to fund it, but right now they (the state) don't have money and if they get some they'll fund it," she stated.

Schott explained that all 1984 funding for innovative wastewater treatment projects such as land irrigation has been allocated to Mississippi communities, but if some of the funds are not used this year the state will provide it to Hancock.

Those funds, provided to Mississippi through the Environmental Protection Agency, are in the form of 85 percent matching grants and in 1985 the money will be available at a 75 percent rate.

But Schott explained that although the state only commits these funds on an annual basis, Harrison and Jackson Counties have relatively large 'segmented projects' which will require funding over a three-year period and the funding depends on decisions by Congress.

"Nobody made commitments to anything. They didn't want to tell us they could or couldn't fund us, but they do understand our needs and favor our project," she stated.

Schott reported the wastewater district 201 Plan, which is the long-range sewage treatment plan for the county, needs revisions to include the recently added spray irrigation alternative.

But the administrator said those revisions are minor and should be completed by the district engineer, Lewis-Eaton Partnership of Jackson, by the end of this week.

The next step is formulating plans and specifications for the project by June, she noted.

Schott said the Hancock delegation met with the state officials for about 90 minutes.

"It was encouraging, but not definite one way or another. But we feel state officials support our plan," she added.

Sewage pollution cited in two Hancock areas

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Members of the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District Board of Directors at a Wednesday night meeting cited two areas of Hancock County where raw sewage is flowing into ditches and waterways.

Their statements were part of a discussion emphasizing the need for countywide sewerage and a proposed land irrigation sewage treatment system.

A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, a wastewater board member and Hancock County Board of Supervisors president, said raw sewage can be viewed in many ditches in the Pearlinton area.

"The water table is right on top of the ground," he cited as the reason why many septic tanks will not work in that area.

"I don't know why we don't have an epidemic with what is in those ditches," Kellar stated.

Mayor John Longo of Waveland, who is also chairman of the wastewater board, regarding the Shoreline Park area, stated, "I can show you trailers and homes without septic tanks."

Michael Anthony, of the nearby Jordan River Estates area, agreed with Longo and reported the newly-formed Shoreline Park Civic Association is trying to solve pollution problems in that area.

He said the association is trying to get the state to stop the dumping of raw sewage into ditches and canals in that area.

"If they don't do the job, we'll take it to court and sue the state for not doing their job," Anthony stated.

Longo said, "If we're really going to clean up south Hancock County, we really need the help from the people who have complained about the mess."

Council again tables condo request

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

A decision regarding conversion of Louisville Garden Apartments to condominiums was delayed again Thursday at a recess meeting of the Bay St. Louis City Council.

Council Vice-President Harry Farve, presiding in the absence of President Wilmer Seymour, concurred with Councilmen James Thriffley and Sheldon Seuzeneau in tabling the matter until next Tuesday's meeting at 5:30 p.m.

Councilman Gary Griffin also was absent from Thursday's meeting, as was Mayor Larry Bennett who was in Jackson meeting with other Waveland Wastewater Management District members and officials of the Bureau of Pollution Control.

"I don't feel 48 hours is sufficient time for our attorney to digest the material at hand," Thriffley told Gary Polson, real estate and marketing agent for the condominium project.

"Digesting the documentation is extremely important in justice to the people we represent," he noted.

Last Tuesday Polson asked the council to sign a plat for conversion of the apartments to 71 individual condominium units, saying the units are being offered to current residents who have until April 30 to decide whether or not to buy.

If the project is approved one-bedroom units will be sold for $41,700 and two-bedroom units for $52,500 to $53,200.

The apartments are currently renting for $350 to $380 per month, and according to Polson, renters who elect to purchase will pay "virtually the same price as they've been paying for rent," taking into consideration tax breaks and special inducements being offered to them if they buy.

City Attorney Joseph Gex said he had perused the project plans and didn't see anything particularly out of the ordinary in the documents.

"I don't see any problems with it at this point as far as legality is concerned," he said.

Gex did note a provision that the developer would maintain control on the association's board of directors until 75 percent of the units were sold, and Polson said that was a standard clause for condominium management across the United States.

Valachi trial scheduled, bond raised to $10,000

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Circuit Judge James Thomas has set aside judgment nisi against Dominic Valachi and scheduled his trial on two charges of forgery for Monday.

Judgment nisi was entered in February when Valachi failed to appear in court and Rev. Bruno Cantu, who had offered property of The Church of Gospel Ministry as a $1,500 bond for Valachi's release from the Hancock County jail just before Christmas, advised he did not know Valachi's whereabouts.

Final judgment nisi was scheduled for Thursday, but earlier last week Cantu located Valachi in Jefferson Parish, La. and had him arrested.

Valachi waived extradition and was returned to Mississippi for court Thursday.

Valachi told Thomas that his prior non-appearance was a "misunderstanding" and that he was not trying to avoid the charges against him.

He said he and his wife had set up house-keeping in Louisiana, that he had a "good job" working for the World's Fair earning about $300 per week and that he had tried to contact Jefferson Parish officials about his case here but had been "given the run-around."

Thomas reset Valachi's bond at $5,000 on each charge, stipulating the bond would have to be paid in cash or through a bondsman's surety bond, not by property bond.

Also Tuesday the council:

—Followed Bennett's recommendation in appointing Neil Favre to replace John Ginn on the Parks and Playground Commission, for a five-year term beginning April 2, 1984; and —Approved the claims docket 2-1, with Thriffley voting against approval.

As of Friday afternoon, Valachi was still in custody in Hancock jail.

He is charged with forging two Gulfview Elementary School Parent-Teacher Organization checks in the total amount of $1,800 last July while he served as treasurer of the group.

Judgment nisi is entered when a person out on bond fails to appear in court; if he or she does not appear by the next term of court, final judgment is entered and the bondsman must forfeit the bond.

In other court business this week: —James Kevin Crosby was placed in the diversion program administered through the district attorney's office and charges of burglary were passed to the files based on his successful completion of the diversion program and payment of restitution, court costs and attorney fees.

Judgments nisi were set aside for Rodney C. Martin and Terry Lee Walker, each charged with burglary of a dwelling and grand larceny; Martin is currently in Hancock jail and Walker is in custody in Georgia.

—Jo Ellen Champagne's motion in connection with her conviction for fraudulent use of food stamps was turned over to Circuit Judge J. Ruble Griffin for disposition.

—William Carter's trial on charges of sale of controlled substance was continued to the July court term.

The dump is open Monday through Friday 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays 9 to 11 a.m. and 3 to 6 p.m. Recent weather had hampered the proper coverage of the tremendous amount of garbage placed at the facility in recent months, according to the supervisors. Recent study compares hospital costs

Hancock General Hospital has the lowest cost of her hospital rooms in the Harrison-Hancock County area, according to a recent survey of average daily semi-private room charges conducted by the Health Insurance Association of America.

Hancock General's charges are $117 per day, compared to $127 at Biloxi Regional Medical Center and $137 at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport.

The study focused on tax-supported facilities and no figures were available for local private hospitals.

The state of Mississippi is at the bottom of the list nationally with an average cost per day of $105. The highest charge as of July, 1983, was $267 per day in the District of Columbia and California—more than twice the rate in Mississippi.

In fact, the Southern states generally showed lower charges, ranging from the national low of $105 in Mississippi to $189 in Florida.

Overall, the highest rates were found in the Northeastern and Western states. The national daily average for semi-private rooms was $195 per day, up six percent since January, 1983.

In addition to the District of Columbia, states that showed rates above the national average included Alaska at $231, Hawaii at $226, Illinois at $230, Massachusetts at $208, Michigan at $244 and Pennsylvania at $237.

HITLER'S ART

"The Great Art Dictator," a one-hour documentary film about Adolf Hitler's obsession for amassing the world's greatest art collection, can be seen at 9 p.m., Sunday, April 8, on Mississippi Educational Television.

The story began in 1907, when the Entrance Examiners of the Vienna Fine Arts Academy rejected an application from the young Hitler, thus causing him to hold a grudge against modern art that he never forgot. When he gained power in 1933, he was determined to get rid of the popular art of the 1920s and replace it with more representational works.

He persecuted modern artists to the point of suicide and exile, staged a mocking exhibition of "Degenerate Art" and systematically stole from the great Jewish collections in Holland, France, Poland, Italy and Austria.

Diamondhead man killed in Gulfport accident

A Diamondhead man was killed in a Thursday evening four-vehicle crash in Gulfport.

Charles D. (Chuck) Myers Jr., 30 of Gulfport is charged with manslaughter in the accident which also left four injured.

Larry M. Wilson, 34, of Diamondhead, an assistant U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of Mississippi, was driving east on US-90 after 6 p.m. Thursday when a car driven by Myers jumped the median and slammed head-on into Wilson's car.

Harrison County Coroner Steve Delahousey said Wilson died immediately in the accident.

The manslaughter charge and details of the accident were released at a joint press conference conducted Friday morning by District Attorney Cono Caranna, Gulfport Police Chief Hayward Hargrove and the coroner.

Police reports indicate Myers was heading west, weaving in and out of traffic, at a high rate of speed.

Janet H. Traylor, 32, of Gulfport, also was driving west and was in the left passing lane. The reports say Myers approached her within six to eight feet, then swerved to the right to pass. Myers lost control of his car, cut back in front of Traylor's vehicle and the two cars collided.

Myers' car crossed over the median toward the sand beach into the east-bound lanes and slammed head-on into Wilson's compact car just east of Cowan Road.

Delahousey said Wilson suffered massive trauma to his chest, abdomen and extremities, according to a preliminary examination. An autopsy is being performed to determine "the mechanism, cause and manner of Wilson's death," the coroner stated.

Traylor's car, meanwhile, had rolled to a stop in the right lane of westbound traffic, where her vehicle was hit on the right side by a pickup truck driven by Willie Broughton, who braked and skidded, trying to avoid a collision.

Broughton, of Gulfport, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Myers also was administered a blood alcohol test, but police have not yet released the results of that test.

Wilson, formerly of Jackson, had been assigned to the Coast a few months ago. He was a former Mississippi assistant attorney general.

Jenny Smith, 28, a U.S. Department of Justice employee who was on temporary assignment to the Biloxi office, was a passenger in Wilson's car.

She was taken to Gulf Coast Community Hospital by Mobile Medical with internal injuries. She was in the intensive care unit in stable condition Friday morning.

Mary E. Hrostowski, a passenger in Traylor's vehicle, was admitted to the U.S. Air Force Medical Center at Keesler. A report on her condition was unavailable Friday morning.

Kevin Brown, a passenger with Myers, was treated and released Thursday night.

The Gulfport Fire Department used the Jaws of Life to cut away the driver's side of Wilson's car.

with prosecuting attorneys.

And Sullivan, put under oath on Thomas' orders over Tucker's objections, said he knew when he pled there was a mistake in the indictment and believed he couldn't be sentenced to five years.

Reading from the trial record, Thomas quoted himself as saying, "You face a five-year sentence for the receiving-stolen-property charge. Do you understand that?"

"You answered 'Yes, sir.'"

"You're saying when you said that you knew you couldn't be sentenced to five years?"

"I didn't know for sure," Sullivan responded.

"I had a good idea. That was my opinion."

"You knew at the time you pled guilty your attorneys were going to try to cut your sentence later on?" Thomas asked.

"Yes, sir," Sullivan replied.

"By entering a plea you gave up a number of valuable rights," Thomas said.

"One of the things that are waived are any defects in the indictment."

"In my opinion, that is not waived," Tucker responded.

"You made a deal with the state," Thomas said.

"You're trying to renege on that now, but you don't want the state to be able to renege."

"If you're breaking the deal the state ought to have the right to break the deal."

Thomas advised Assistant District Attorney J.P. Compton, representing the state, that he could initiate proceedings against Sullivan as a life habitual and could amend the original indictment or "renew" Sullivan for receiving stolen property.

Or, he said, Sullivan could agree to go along with the original sentence.

"It has long been recognized in this state and in any other state, and recognized by the U.S. Supreme Court, that plea bargaining is valid, legal and a 'necessary evil' in the judicial process," Thomas commented.

But both sides must deal in good faith, he said.

"It seems odd that this motion was not filed until the original district attorney's administration was no longer in office."

"It would be a total miscarriage of justice to change the sentence in this case."

"If I changed the sentence in this case I might as well quit conducting court."

computer," Gibson asserted.

Grounds for the appeal, Gibson said, included the following:

—Gutierrez was deprived of a trial by jury, which he asked for and was denied and which Gibson said could have been granted at the discretion of the city judge;

—The breath test was, in effect, an illegal search;

—Due process was denied because the city judge acted as prosecutor, jury and judge; and —Due process was denied by the Commissioner of Public Safety because the burden was placed on the defendant.

"And that's not the law," Gibson said.

"No Commissioner of Public Safety in the State of Mississippi has precedence over the courts of Mississippi."

Gutierrez' case is set for trial Tuesday, but Circuit Judge James Thomas said he would need time to consider attorneys' arguments.

"Most judges have some questions about the constitutionality of some parts of this law," Thomas commented.

And Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said after court proceedings that while it's essential to get drunk drivers off the road, he too thinks there are some problems with the current law.

"Once a license is sent to Jackson," he added, "it's darned hard to get it back."

Chamber's 3rd Commerce Day slated Tuesday

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will sponsor its annual Commerce Day Tuesday, according to Kathy Fernandez, co-chairman of the chamber's education committee.

Commerce Day was developed to allow junior class students from the six local high schools the opportunity to spend the day in the normal work environment at establishments of participating chamber members.

"Today, many students are faced with a perplexing career choice upon completion of their education," stated Fernandez. "By exposing students to actual work conditions in their junior year, students can use the experience during their senior year to pursue or re-evaluate the career options."

Students from Bay Senior, Hancock North Central, Coast Episcopal, Our Lady's Academy, Trinity Christian Academy and St. Stanislaus high schools will participate in the day's activity.

"The participation by more than 60 local businesses and professionals provides a valuable learning experience for the students," stated Fernandez.

The students will be with the participating chamber members from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Lin Rutherford, first vice-commander and blood chairman for Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post No. 77 of Waveland, reports he is going to reach the post's blood drawing quota on Wednesday.

The blood drawing will be held on Wednesday from 3 to 7 p.m. at the legion home, Coleman Avenue behind the post office.

Rutherford says he has come within one unit of reaching the post's quota at previous drawing.

Blood plays a vital role in the life of everyone, and we never know when we, or a member of our family will need a unit.

We hope Wednesday's drawing will be successful and will go over the quota.

On a drive along Highway 603 this week, we noted how beautiful the Chereokee Roses, (wild roses) are dotted along the road with bright white splashes.

On the other hand we know the trouble the briars of these flowers can cause to someone who has the job of removing them from an area.

Yet, they sure dress up the countryside.

It may have been the terrible dreary feelings everyone has had because of the severe cold this winter, but, all of the wild flowers seem to look exceptionally good.

Nature seems to have a way of recovering from disasters.

Monday will mark the 44th anniversary of the Fall of Bataan and we have had an opportunity of telling the story of J.C. Baxter of Bay St. Louis several years ago.

We have an interesting letter from Baxter in today's issue and we hope it will be read by everyone.

Fred Curet of Bay St. Louis was also captured at Corregidor and he too remembers the horrors of the 'Death March'.

We know many Americans lost their lives in the Philippine Islands, and have also been told of one county resident who lost his life on the way to Japan after the march.

The letter from Baxter is a grim reminder of what really happened to American soldiers as well as Filipino defenders in the war with Japan.

de Montluzin scholarship established in languages

America is awakening to the realization that for many years it has been short-changing its young people in the matter of learning another language besides English.

In European and Asian schools the average child is required to study a second language (usually English) for seven years before he enters a university, so that he will be prepared for the international community the modern world has become.

In the United States, after a lapse of half a century, foreign language study is belatedly beginning to be required again.

As world trade, diplomacy, and travel draw us all closer together, Americans are at a distinct and shameful disadvantage in knowing only their own language.

No longer is this enough in a century in which the Japanese, the Russians, the Chinese, the French, the Saudis, the Spanish, and many others speak English and speak it well.

Our image as world leaders and our business relations with other nations suffer because of our total inadequacy in communicating in a second language.

Now at last American schools are beginning the process of catching up. Louisiana, for example, will require next year that French be taught every year, starting at fourth grade level.

Mississippi high schools are soon to make two years of a foreign language mandatory for graduation. Most colleges nationwide are reinstituting language requirements for many of their degrees.

In Hancock County a new foreign language scholarship for high school seniors has been set up by friends and former students of Mrs. Emily de Montluzin, who recently retired from teaching foreign languages at Bay Senior High.

The first scholarship will be awarded in May to a student graduating from one of the four accredited high schools in Hancock County.

Students interested in applying should obtain an application form from their principal or from Mrs. Mary Lee Lagarde, 237 St. Charles Street, Bay St. Louis.

Applicants must be a resident of Hancock County, must have excelled for at least two years in a foreign language course (both years in the same language) and must continue the study of that language for at least the freshman year in college.

Applications should be submitted during the first week of May.

Anyone wishing to make a contribution to the scholarship fund may send his check to the Emily de Montluzin Foreign Language Scholarship Fund, P.O. Box 127, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

The advisory board for administering the scholarship fund and selecting the recipient each year is comprised of Leo Seal Jr., Richard Thomas, Ellis Cuevas, Mary Lee Lagarde, George di Benedetto, Dorothy di Benedetto, and Emily de Montluzin.

SEEKING TRASH VIOLATORS—This load of trash was dumped about one and a quarter miles from the county dump at Catahoula. On Thursday, Bert Courge, left, District One Supervisor; Sam Perniciaro, District Four Supervisor; and Nathan Hoda, Hancock County sheriff's deputy seek name of person owning the debris. The supervisors and deputy located a name, and the person was notified to remove the garbage by the sheriff's department. We are happy that local political leaders and law enforcement agencies are supporting beautification throughout our county. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Monday marks Bataan fall Anniversary. local survivor comments on tortures

April 5, 1984
Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,

April 9 commemorates the 44th anniversary of the Fall of Bataan. On April 9, 1942, Major General Edward P. King in order to prevent the complete annihilation of his haggard, starved and diseased troops on Bataan, was forced to surrender 'unconditionally.'

Never in the history of our great nation was so large and gallant an Army written off so callously.

General King's surrender was the inevitable result of years of American unpreparedness and of a sudden attack launched by a ruthless and determined foe.

After devastating initial air strikes, Japanese forces which had poured ashore on Luzon in December 1941 swiftly captured the city of Manila and forced the American and Filipino defenders back into the mountains and jungles of the Bataan Peninsula.

By the beginning of April 1942 the weary and battered defenders were on their final defensive line stretching from Mt. Sumat to the jungle plains of Manila Bay.

Starving after four months of one third rations or less, vicious fighting, crippled by debilitating disease and shocked by the strain of combat and the obvious hopelessness of their plight, they were incapable of halting the final Japanese offensive.

After days of ceaseless air and artillery bombardment, they succumbed to the crushing force of Japanese tanks and infantry.

The end of the fighting did not, however, bring an end to the suffering of the tenacious Bataan Defenders.

Instead of finding respite and rehabilitation, the American and Filipino prisoners were assailed, humiliated, denied sustenance and medicine, and in many cases wantonly and brutally murdered by their savage captors.

Their bitter trek to the POW camps has since become known as the 'Bataan Death March,' a searing tragedy far worse than the harsh military struggle that preceded it.

The Death March grew out of a ghastly combination of circumstances—the incredibly poor condition of the sick, starving men when they were captured; the disorganized and irresponsible Japanese leadership's failure to ameliorate the plight of the prisoners.

The result was a shocking, horrifying, all but incredible tragedy.

The arrival of the captives at the POW camps of O'Donnell and Cabanatuan, where the Japanese chose to imprison them brought to a close the tragic exodus from Bataan.

But the ordeal of the stricken men was still far from over. The horrors of prison camp were as bitter as those of the 'Death March,' and they would not cease until the final day of liberation in 1945.

Those horrors also were the product of a harsh alien system that denied POWs the halm of mercy and the charity of forgiveness.

On this 44th anniversary of the surrender of Bataan, no new words of tribute or redemption can equal a simple salute broadcast from besieged Corregidor on April 9, 1942, by a young Filipino officer, Lt. Norman Ryes.

These were the words that went out from the 'Voice Of Freedom' transmitter on Corregidor to the world, words that still echo clear and strong in the hearts of free men everywhere.

'Bataan has fallen.'

'The Philippine and American troops on this war ravaged and bloodstained peninsula have laid down their arms. With heads bloody but unbowed, they have yielded to the superior force and number of the Japanese enemy.'

'The world will long remember the epic struggle that American and Filipino soldiers put up in the jungle fastnesses and along the rugged coast of Bataan and Mariveles.'

'They have stood up uncomplaining, uncompromising, under the constant and grueling fire of the enemy for more than three months. Besieged on land and blockaded by sea, cut off from all sources of help from America, these intrepid fighters have done all that human endurance could bear.'

'Our men have fought a brave and bitterly contested struggle. All the world will testify to the almost super human endurance with which they stood up until the last in the face of overwhelming odds.'

'But the decision had to come. Men fighting under the banner of an 'Unshakable Faith' are made of something more than flesh, but they are not made of impervious steel.'

'The flesh must yield at last, endurance melts away, and the end of the battle must come.'

'Bataan has fallen, but the spirit that made it stand, a beacon to all the liberty loving peoples of the world can never, never fall.'

May I offer this meek and humble 'epitaph' to this story of the 44th anniversary of the fall of Bataan and Corregidor (Corregidor fell on May 6, 1942).

I have spent long and tedious hours researching and studying volumes of books and official records, and the final analysis accepted by government sources.

At the outbreak of war in December 1941 there were 25,000 American soldiers in the entire Philippine Islands.

These service units consisted of the Army, Air Corps, Navy and Marines. Of that total some 23,000 were on Bataan and Corregidor.

Now at the fall of Bataan and Corregidor the exact number of Americans killed in battle is not known.

It is claimed that some 22,700 American troops were captured in the entire Philippine campaign. Of this total 12,000 died in Japanese prisons and slave labor camps from brutality, starvation and disease.

Some 10,700 American POWs were repatriated in September and October of 1945. From 1945 to January 1980, 5,000 ex-POWs of Bataan and Corregidor have died, mainly from the residual effects of privation and diseases they suffered as Japanese prisoners, thus leaving in January 1980, only four short years ago, a grim total of 5,700 defenders of Bataan and Corregidor alive.

From the obituary notices listed in the American ex-POW bulletin 'Tape' the final 'Roll Call' is sounded for some 40 Japanese ex-POWs each month.

Somewhere it is written 'The blade of the sword is sharpened and furnished. The sickle in the silent reaper's hand is poised.'

Pray tell us now, how many are left? With warm personal regards,

Joseph C. Baxter

Domestic marijuana program to continue

The Marijuana Eradication Program, responsible for destroying some 60,000 illegal plants in 1983, will be continued in 1984, according to James L. Roberts Jr., commissioner of public safety.

The program, funded by a federal grant through the Drug Enforcement Agency, is designed to coordinate the efforts of local, state and federal law enforcement agencies in locating and removing domestically grown marijuana.

'Despite the success of last year's effort, we know that Mississippi remains a primary state for manufacturing marijuana,' Roberts said. 'That means we must build upon the lessons we learned in 1983.'

The program was established by an executive order signed in June 1983 by then Governor William Winter. That order remains in effect. It directs the commissioner of public safety to coordinate the marijuana eradication effort in Mississippi.

'I have directed that the Bureau of Narcotics handle administration of the program in 1984,' Roberts announced. 'Although the program was successfully coordinated last year by a branch of the Highway Patrol's Criminal Investigation Bureau, I feel that the program can be just as successful in the hands of the state agency with a primary mission to control illegal drug and narcotics traffic.'

Roberts said that Donald Butler, newly appointed as the director of the Bureau of Narcotics, gained 'valuable experience with the marijuana suppression effort in his former capacity as chief of the Highway Patrol.'

'The success of the 1983 program can be attributed in large measure to the interest Butler showed in the program while it was coordinated by the Highway Patrol,' Roberts said.

The Marijuana Eradication Program in 1983 established a new record for the number of illegal plants destroyed in the state, 60,647. The previous record, set in 1982, was 43,496 plants.

Officers discovered 966 separate marijuana plots in 1983 compared to 68 plots in 1982. There were 128 arrests in 1983 compared to 64 in 1982.

Mississippi's soil and climate conditions are recognized as ideal for marijuana cultivation, making the state attractive to marijuana manufacturers from all regions of the nation.

Focus on Small Business

U.S. Small Business Administration

By Dorothy A. Overal
Public Information Officer

Q. As a small business owner, I get the feeling that I pay a higher interest rate than large businesses. Any truth to this?

A. Not only are you paying anywhere from three to four percentage points higher now, but that figure may still go higher.

A Small Business Administration report recently noted that smaller firms end up paying higher interest rates than big businesses.

Some of the blame, experts say, can be placed on bank deregulation, whereby banks are now hotly contesting each other for business, mainly from the large corporations.

The net result is that in order to get the larger accounts, banks are willing to provide discounts to major corporations to lure them to the bank, a practice they will not, or cannot, provide for small businesses.

Banks also claim that as a result of the number of bankruptcies by small firms, banks should be able to charge a higher rate in the vent the small business goes under.

Banks also claim it takes longer to analyze and process loan applications for a small firm.

What's the answer? Like in most purchases, it is best to shop around for the best bargain, and read the fine print, closely.

POINT OF LAW

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your legal rights.)

Q: What are a parent's rights regarding a child's medical care?

A: Parents do not have a right to refuse medical treatment for their minor child if the treatment is non-experimental, or if denial of the treatment would result in death of the child.

If parents refuse to authorize treatment that promises the child a chance to a normal, healthy growth, the state may intervene and overrule parental wishes.

Parents or guardians may commit their minor child to state mental institutions if they feel it is in the child's best interest and the child is under the age of 18 and unmarried.

However, to assure that parents are acting in the child's best interest, Mississippi requires an independent examination by a licensed physician and a decision by the chancellor of the Chancery Court that the commitment is to the child's benefit.

Q: What are Mississippi's laws concerning marriage?

A: In Mississippi, the male must be 17 years old and the female 15 years old before the couple can apply for a marriage license.

An underage couple may marry only with parental consent.

Thirty days before applying for a marriage license, the couple must receive a medical certificate showing them to be free of syphilis. Application for a marriage license must be in writing and be on file in the clerk's office at least three days before a couple receives the license.

There is no common law marriage in Mississippi. Common law marriage was abolished in 1956. But if a couple entered into a common law marriage before 1956 or in another state where common law is valid, the marriage is accepted.

Children of a common law marriage consummated after 1956 are illegitimate.

Bay PD nabs seven for pot possession

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Bay St. Louis Police Department arrested seven Friday for marijuana possession including one for sale of the weed and another for possessing a felonious amount.

Chief Investigator Murray Ladner of the Bay PD said Saturday that Stanley Christmas, 19, of 548 Sycamore St. is charged with possession of marijuana with intent to sell.

Ladner reported that Christmas was booked at Hancock County Jail in Bay St. Louis. Jail records indicate Christmas was released Friday on a $5,000 property bond.

The investigator said Christmas was arrested at the corner of Washington and Third Streets at about 7:26 p.m.

Two women were also arrested at the corner along with Christmas, but they were each charged with the misdemeanor possession of less than one ounce of marijuana and released from the police station on $250 bond each, Ladner reported.

Participating in that series of arrests were Ladner, Investigator Joe Pica and Patrolman Gary Crum.

Scott Cox, 22, of 123 Washington St. in Bay St. Louis is charged with possession of more than one ounce of marijuana, Ladner said.

The jail records indicate Cox was booked and released Friday on a $1,500 property bond.

The chief investigator reported Cox was apprehended at 4:41 p.m. at the corner of Hancock and Booklet Streets. Ladner said he was assisted in the arrest by Pica and Capt. Robert (Bob) Butler.

At 10:58 p.m., the Bay police, assisted by the Hancock Sheriff's Department, raided a Caron Lane residence, but each of the three men there were charged with possession of less than one ounce and released from the police station on $250 bond, Ladner reported.

The chief investigator said a search warrant for the residence was obtained from Circuit Judge J. Ruble Griffin of Bay St. Louis.

Participating in the raid were Ladner, Pica, Patrolman Ed Prendergast, and Investigator Alvin Ladner and Deputy Glen Strong, both of the Hancock SO.

UNION HISTORY

"American Playhouse" presents an original drama about the pioneering attempts of a young black man and his fellow stockyard workers to bring together other minorities to form an interracial industry union in the face of growing conflict in Chicago, the culmination of which eventually led to the Chicago race riot of 1919.

The drama, "The Killing Floor," written by Leslie Lee, can be seen at 9 p.m., Tuesday, April 10, on Mississippi Educational Television.

The story traces the emotionally challenging transformations rural people underwent as they confronted American industrial society. Frank Custer (Damien Leake) and Thomas Joshua (Ernest Rayford) are newly arrived blacks who have come to take advantage of Chicago's economic opportunities.

SMOKEY GREY KITTY—The Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland has this smokey-grey and white four-month-old female cat named Stardust who was left at the shelter recently by her owner who could no longer properly care for the gentle cat. AN INTELLIGENT GIRL—This alert little two-month-old female pup named Penelope needs a good home with a fenced yard fast. Penelope is a mixed spaniel who is primarily black with reddish trim. She is one of numerous precious little puppies now at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland. But the shelter is again overcrowded with tiny pups and many of these poor little guys will be painlessly destroyed by lethal injection unless good homes with fenced yards are found quickly. To adopt Penelope or any of her little friends, please call the Bay-Waveland Humane Society volunteer at 467-0230 Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

READY TO GO—Toby is the name of this husky six-month-old mixed labrador and German shepherd puppy now at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland. He has all the necessary vaccinations and been wormed by the owner who moved and had to give Toby up for adoption. A Bay-Waveland Humane Society volunteer reports that the young dog loves children and is a protective watchdog. However, the shelter is again overcrowded with dogs and Toby will be painlessly destroyed by lethal injection unless a good home with a fenced yard is found fast. For adoption information telephone the humane society volunteer at 467-0230 Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

WATER WASTE
A slow faucet drip can waste 10 to 20 gallons of water a day, says National Wildlife magazine.

Mrs. Joe Borgstede, Hubbard, Mrs. and Mrs. Sam Rotolo. The new restaurant which serves round table style is owned by the Borgstede and Rotolo families and is open 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and 5 to 9 p.m. daily. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Medic Alert protects during emergencies

More than 40 million men, women and children in the U.S. suffer from a hidden medical condition, according to the Medic Alert Foundation in Turlock, Calif.

This includes an estimated 10 million diabetics, 21 million people with allergies to penicillin or other medications and five million people with heart conditions.

According to the American College of Emergency Physicians, there are more than 80 million visits to U.S. hospital emergency rooms every year.

This fact alone, says Medic Alert, clearly demonstrates the need for people who have hidden medical conditions to take advantage of the protection offered to them by emergency medical identification.

Medic Alert, which claims to be the best recognized system of emergency medical identification in the world, currently serves 1.3 million members in the United States. Close to 60,000 others are served by 16 affiliate foundations outside the U.S.

To reach an even greater number of the 40 million Americans who have life-threatening hidden medical conditions, the Medic Alert Foundation recently mounted the largest Medic Alert Week campaign in its 27-year history.

Last week thousands of individual volunteers and organizations throughout the country conducted local community programs to educate people with hidden medical conditions on the life-saving value of emergency medical identification.

The Medic Alert system consists of an alerting device (worn either as a bracelet or necklace), an 24-hour emergency answering service and a wallet card reissued every year to assure emergency medical personnel that they are working with current medical history.

Each alerting device is engraved with the member's hidden medical condition or conditions, individual Medic Alert membership number and a toll-free number for the emergency answering service.

If a member is stricken in a medical emergency and is unable to communicate his or her hidden condition, emergency personnel can call Medic Alert and receive within 30 seconds the member's emergency medical data which has been stored in computer files.

"We face a difficult challenge," says Medic Alert's Director of Medical Affairs Luther L. Terry MD, who served as U.S. Surgeon General under President John Kennedy.

"Many of the 40 million people who have hidden medical conditions really don't want to either admit or publicize that fact that they have a problem. In addition, many simply don't want to let their condition affect their daily lives. They want to live a normal, productive life feeling good about themselves."

"Medic Alert protection offers these people a chance to have an 'extra edge' in case they experience a medical emergency and are unable to communicate their problem."

"We believe Medic Alert membership adds to the quality of a person's life rather than detracts from it."

Informational brochures and membership applications for Medic Alert are available at Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis, or by writing Medic Alert Foundation, P.O. Box 1009, Turlock, Calif. 95381.

LIFE-SAVERS—In emergency situations, Medic Alert bracelets and necklaces can help save lives of persons with hidden medical conditions.

Candlelight vows join Bell, Knight

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church was the setting for the March 2 marriage of Marquet Bell and James Marquett Bell, both of Bay St. Louis. Rev. Francis Farrell officiated at the double ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Leland Knight of Picayune. The groom is the son of Edith Thibaux of Bay St. Louis. The altar was decorated with basket arrangements of white gladioli, carnations, cushion mums and fern. Gothic candelabra adorned the sanctuary and candles lined the center aisle.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. John McKenna, organist, and Donald Mauffray and Conrad Mauffray, vocalists.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza over bridal taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a sheer yoke and high neckline overlaid with chantilly lace accented with pearls. Her slender skirt was bordered with organza and lace ruffles which formed a bustle effect in back and swept to a chapel length train. She wore a waltz length veil of illusion bordered with chantilly lace and held in place by a beaded Juliet cap.

The bride carried a cascade of silk roses in rainbow colors. Lisa Barton of New Orleans, La. attended the bride as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Tracey Butsch of Bay St. Louis; Jennifer Knight of New Orleans and Janice Johnson of Houston, Tex., sisters of the bride; Cheryl Fricke of Bay St. Louis, and Dianne Sheets of Lynden, Wash., sisters of the groom. Michelle Higgins of Bay St. Louis, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

The attendants were attired in formal gowns of rainbow hue in chiffon and silesta, each with Grecian styling, blouson bodice with deep V-neckline, fitted waistline and flared skirts. They carried hand-painted lace fans with silk flowers to complement their gowns.

Irving Higgins of Bay St. Louis, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Tommy Higgins of Bay St. Louis, nephew of the groom; Terrence Ladner of Waveland, brother of the groom; Thomas Johnson of Houston, Tex., brother-in-law of the bride; Raymond Goins of Pearl-Lynden, Wash., brother-in-law of the groom.

John Roche of Bay St. Louis was usher and Ryan Schaeffer, also of Bay St. Louis, was ring bearer.

The groom's mother chose for the occasion a formal blue chiffon gown with jewel neckline, long full sleeves and fitted waist with flowing skirt.

A reception followed at the Hancock County Fairgrounds building.

Assisting were Mollie McDonald, Marilyn Higgins and Melissa Burge, all of Bay St. Louis; Leah Ladner of Waveland and Thomas Johnson of Houston, Tex.

Chapman, Golmon wed at Christ Episcopal Church

Mary Ann Golmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Scruggs Golmon, all of Bay St. Louis, became the bride of Samuel Gregory Chapman of San Antonio, Tex., son of Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Chandler Chapman III, in an afternoon wedding ceremony March 17 at Christ Episcopal Church. The Rev. Charles Johnson officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional gown of gardenia white satepeau with a high neckline and yolk of re-embroidered Alencon lace, fitted bodice with panels of matching lace over the skirt and long full sleeves. The imported veil of Brussels lace has been worn by many brides in the family over the years.

Shelia Boggs Hudson of Jackson served as maid of honor.

The bridesmaids were Charlotte Amelia Golmon, sister of the bride; Barbara Chapman, sister of the groom; and Ann James of Pass Christian.

Sister of the bride Sarah Elizabeth Golmon served as flower girl.

Matthew Chapman of San Antonio, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Groomsmen were John Chapman of San Antonio and Calvin Chandler Chapman IV of Fairbanks, Alaska, brothers of the groom and Joseph Woodliff Golmon, brother of the bride.

Cecil Maison Heidelberg of Jackson, cousin of the bride, served as usher. Roy Heidelberg Golmon, brother of the bride, served as acolyte.

Traditional music was presented by soloist Mrs. Calvin Chandler Chapman III, mother of the groom, accompanied by Mrs. Pat Hille, organist.

Cascades of magnolia leaves and white pear-blossoms adorned the altar, with clusters of magnolia leaves and white satin ribbons placed on the altar rail.

MRS. SAMUEL GREGORY CHAPMAN

Wilson, Leapley exchange vows

Lori Cavell Leapley became the bride of Henry David Wilson during an evening candlelight ceremony March 9 at First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis. Dr. Nathan L. Barber officiated at the ceremony and Gail Carr provided organ music.

The bride is the daughter of William T. and Barbara B. Leapley of Pass Christian. The groom is the son of Mrs. Bessie Margaret Wilson and the late Henry Joseph Wilson of Lancashire, England.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of schiffli-embroidered English net over satin. The fitted bodice featured a high neckline and sheer yoke overlaid with beaded venise lace. A flounce of wedgewood lace accented with satin ribbon and pearls covered the shoulder yoke. The full bishop sleeves of embroidered net had cuffs of venise lace and ribbon. The flowing skirt was bordered with triple rows of wedgewood lace ruffles and extended to a chapel length train. Her veil of illusion was held by a crown of silk flowers. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses interspersed with baby's breath and violets.

Christine Scarborough attended the bride as matron of honor and Daniel Glenn Leapley, brother of the bride, of Kensington, Md. was best man.

A reception followed at Grasslawn. The couple will make their home in Gulfport.

Norma Favre Memorial Fund established by Bayou Chapter FEW

The Bayou Chapter of Federally Employed Women (FEW), which draws its membership from National Space Technology Laboratories and the Mississippi Gulf Coast region has established the Norma Favre Memorial Education Fund.

The fund is named in honor of Norma Favre who was president of the Bayou Chapter at the time of her death on Sept. 22, 1983. Norma was dedicated to the principal of advancement for women through individual development and dedication. Appropriately the Memorial Education Fund will enable newly-elected presidents of the Bayou Chapter to attend the annual National FEW Training Conference or a Regional Training Conference. If the president has an alternate source of funding, then another chapter officer may use the fund to take advantage of a National or Regional Training Conference opportunity.

The goals of the Bayou Chapter membership are to maintain strong ties with the national FEW officers and members, to maintain identification with National FEW objectives and major program thrusts and to have within the chapters control the financial resources to further these goals.

The Norma Favre Memorial Education Fund will have a corpus of $1,000 in a separate interest bearing account. The principal will remain intact. Only the interest will be used to help defray costs of attending annual National Training Conferences.

If you support the ideals of opportunity and equality for women in government, your contribution to the establishment of the Norma Favre

Memorial Education Fund will be greatly appreciated by the members of the Bayou Chapter of FEW. Make your tax deductible contribution payable to the Norma Favre Memorial Education Fund. Mail to Bayou Chapter, Federally Employed Women, Attn: Dewey Little, P.O. Box 316, Pearl-Lynden, Ms 39572.

$30 million needed to repair Statue of Liberty

By Joe Pilet
Vice Regent

Friendship Oak Chapter
National Society DAR

The upkeep of a lady can get expensive! But if she remains a dignified gentle woman, respected and honored, the cost is not of very great consequence. Mademoiselle Liberte is such a woman. The National Park Service of the Department of the Interior is conducting a campaign to raise $30,000,000 in private donations to put our Miss Liberty in top repair. DAR members have evidenced their interest in and support of this project.

Miss Liberty has a proud lineage. She was designed by Sculptor Frederic Auguste Bartholdi. The iron supporting structure was designed by Alexandre-Gustave Eiffel of Eiffel Tower fame. To refresh our memories, Miss Liberty, a gift from the people of France, was presented to the people of the United States in a Paris ceremony on July 4, 1884. She stood tall—152 feet high, made of copper and cast iron. Fully assembled she rose above the roof tops in Paris and when disassembled to be crated and shipped across the Atlantic she required 214 crates. After arriving in New York harbor she had to wait a whole year for her pedestal to be completed. The dedication took place October 28, 1886.

For these 96 years she has served our country well. She has been exposed to salt air, to acid rains, and to air pollution, but she has remained a symbol for freedom loving people with her message so well expressed by Emma Lazarus: "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free, The wretched refuse of your teeming shore, Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me, I lift my lamp beside the golden door!"

The elements have taken their toll—copper on the

METV's 'Passover' to air Apr. 12

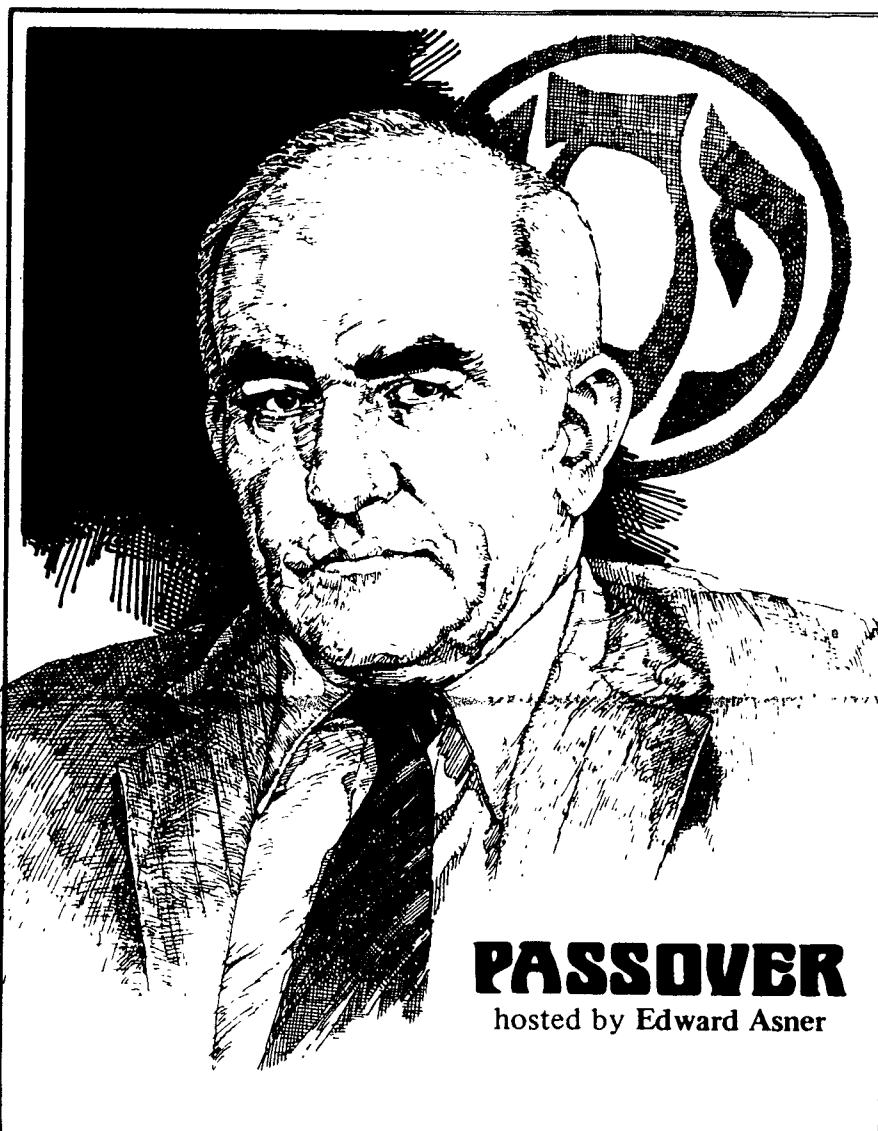

Mississippi ETV's award-winning production "Passover," hosted by Edward Asner, will be rebroadcast this year at 8:30 p.m., Thursday, April 12, on the statewide network.

It will be aired again at 10 p.m., Monday, April 16. Passover begins this year on the evening of April 16.

"Passover" details the history, practice and significance of Passover, celebrated each spring by Jews in remembrance of the Exodus, led by Moses, from Egypt into Israel more than 3,000 years ago. The beginning of Passover is observed at the seder, a home service centered around a special meal.

An American seder is the program's focal point. Also filmed were seders practiced by several Israeli families, and the scene of another well-known Jewish seder is included: the Upper Room where Jesus and the 12 apostles participated in the Last Supper.

Other sequences shot on location in Israel show art from several rare, historical Haggadahs (Passover prayer books); an Israeli dance troupe; and several geographical locations that pertain to the Passover story: the Sinai Desert, Jericho and the Western Wall, the last remaining wall of the Second Temple.

Public radio to expand air schedule

Public Radio in Mississippi, broadcast locally on 90.3 FM-Biloxi, will begin expanding its program schedule on Saturday, April 14.

On that date at 5 p.m., "A Prairie Home Companion" will be added to the Saturday line-up, making the first time that many Mississippi residents will have had an opportunity to hear this program.

Set in the mythical town of Lake Wobegone, host Garrison Keillor creates homespun stories about the fictional residents and brings them to life for listeners.

Humor is one of the basic ingredients of the show and of Keillor's personality. As a result of his many portrayals, he has been likened to a modern day Will Rogers.

Following "A Prairie Home Companion" on April 14 will be "Grass Roots," a locally produced program of blues, folk and acoustic music.

PRM's Operations Manager Mike Morgan will host this weekly series, blending music with high commentary and bluegrass festival information.

PRM will once again expand the Saturday schedule on April 28 to include the first ETV/PRM simulcast of "Austin City Limits." It will follow "Grass Roots" at 8 p.m.

On May 1, PRM hopes to move to a full broadcast schedule of eighteen hours per day, seven days per week, signing-on at 6 a.m. and signing-off at midnight.

At that time, programming will include offerings from National Public Radio and various syndicators. When production facilities at the flagship station in Jackson are completed, locally produced programs will gradually be introduced into the schedule.

PRM, a division of the Mississippi Authority for Educational Television is currently program testing between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. weekdays and noon to 6 p.m. on Saturdays on seven of its eight-station network.

"We're very excited at the prospect of moving to a full broadcast schedule," said Linda Flentje, radio director. "We've received an overwhelming response from listeners as a result of the program tests thus far, with the most common request being, 'Please expand your schedule.' On May 1 we plan to honor those request."

LET THE SUN KING IN

See the treasures of the Louis XIV Exhibition with a coupon from National and Canal Villere and only...

French Monarch Louis XIV's extravagant and luxurious lifestyle set 17th Century fashion and mores. Now, for the first time ever, Louis' treasures from the Louvre Museum, the Palace at Versailles, and many other collections have been brought to the United States - and New Orleans is the first American city to witness this unique exhibit.

National and Canal Villere salute Louis XIV. And from now until June 15, any customer with a receipt for $50 or more (excluding liquor, tobacco, and prescriptions) can obtain a Sun King Exhibit discount coupon from the courtesy booth. This exclusive coupon will admit one to "The Sun King: Louis XIV and the New World" at the Louisiana State Museum (the Cabildo at Jackson Square) for $1.00. That's savings of $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for senior citizens, and 50¢ for children twelve and under.
